

Patricia Warnock has taught Vocal Music in the Music Theatre Program at the Etobicoke School of the Arts for 21 years. The Etobicoke School of the Arts is Canada's oldest freestanding public arts high school, with the only dedicated and auditioned Music Theatre program in the GTA. She is the current Head of the program, and has been for 5 years.

In her time at ESA, Patricia has led her choirs to multiple national gold awards and international awards at Show Choir competitions in the US (Chicago, New York, Boston). Her singers have performed with Josh Groban and Paramore at the Air Canada Centre, with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra (in yearly engagement), Jann Arden, and Leona Boyd.

ESA Music Theatre alumni have gone on to Sheridan College's Music Theatre BFA, Pace University, NYU, Berklee, the Boston Conservatory, Baldwin Wallace, and many other US Music Theatre programs. Patricia has been the vocal director for almost 20 ESA musicals, including, most recently, Fiddler on the Roof, Cabaret, and A Chorus Line.

Patricia received her Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees from the Faculty of Music and the University of Toronto. She has performed with various chamber ensembles around Ontario including the Ardeleana Trio and Musikay, as well as regional theatre and various solo engagements. She is in demand as a vocal clinician and workshop leader, and also teaches privately.
